Himchuli Peak Climbing (6441m) Overview

Himchuli at 6441meters lies in the Annapurna range like the other two peaks known as Tharpu Chuli and Singu Chuli. This is considered a sacred mountain for the Gurung ethnic locals. This peak is one of the difficult peaks climbs in Nepal and it can be climbed from the southeast face and northwest face as well.

Himchuli at 6441meters lies in the Annapurna range like the other two peaks known as Tharpu Chuli and Singu Chuli.

This is considered a sacred mountain for the Gurung ethnic locals. This peak is one of the difficult peaks climbs in Nepal and it can be climbed from the southeast face and northwest face as well.

It is not so difficult technically but there is still the danger of rocks falling.

An American Peace Crops Expedition team first ascended the Himchuli peak in October 1971 via the southeast face. If you are fearless and want to conqure one of the most difficult peak climbing then Himchuli Peak Climbing is the one for you.

Earthbound Expeditions is recommended by Lonely Planet, Trip Advisor, Newyork Times, The Guardian, and many other national and international newspapers and magazines for our good services.
