Tarangire, Serengeti & Ngorongoro Safari Overview

Wildlife safari in northern Tanzania

Wildlife safari in northern Tanzania

In just under six days, you explore the wildlife of two of Tanzania's best-known national parks, Serengeti National Park and Tarangire National Park, and the protected Ngorongoro Crater in East Africa.

This 6-day safari takes you to three of the best game parks on Tanzania's Northern Safari Circuit. Tarangire National Park, the sixth national park established in Tanzania, is in the Manyara Region and is known for its high density of elephants and its baobab trees.

This quiet and uncrowded park is well suited to game viewing, birdwatching and safari. Serengeti National Park is known for its abundant wildlife and high biodiversity, including the annual migration of many animal and bird species.

In addition to these two national parks, you visit the Ngorongoro Conservation Area, a protected area and a World Heritage Site. Its main feature is the Ngorongoro Crater, an intact volcanic caldera full of wildlife.

The three areas are close to one another, which makes it possible to see a wide range of wildlife on one trip. The Tarangire, Serengeti & Ngorongoro Safari combines scenery, wildlife and culture in northern Tanzania.

If you are looking for a wildlife safari with a high standard of service at an affordable price, this six-day 'Tarangire, Serengeti & Ngorongoro Safari' in Tanzania, designed by Earthbound Expeditions, is a good choice.
